SATURDAY'S BALL GAME.

The Kams Beat the Stars by Three Runs.

There are ball players and ball players and games and games. When a nine plays well the boys are looked upon as "dandies in their business," but if it happens that for some reason the playing is not what it should be; if there are errors here and there that result in the defeat of nine good players the expressions of the people, friends and foe alike, change materially. Its the old saw—"when a man's down keep him there."

The game last Saturday was an exhibition of how poorly the Stars can play when they are expected to do well, and their bad playing carried with it the disgust of the spectators.

In the first innings Hart showed himself a weak man in the box, giving two men bases on balls. Harry Wilder let pass opportunities to put two men out on foul tips but apparently could not judge the balls. There is no man in Honolulu who can go behind the bat and do as effective work as Wilder, the great drawback to his playing is in the fact that he loses his temper, or whatever it may be called, and is therefor not regular in his work. Let his nine be just one run ahead and he works like a beaver, put them one behind and he loses faith in the nine, the world and the gate receipts. McNichol at center field had a chance to put a man out when a fly ball dropped into his hands, but he let it pass when the ball bounded out of his hands. The Stars seemed to want to show the people how badly they could play, and their success in this respect was marked. They have good players, and when they want to play ball should defeat the Kamehamehas, even though the latter club has practice at all times. Ganzell, for instance, is an excellent first baseman, but at the bat his weakness consist in his inability to send anything but fly balls, and his failing in this respect is aggravated by the opposite nine having men in the field to take them as they fall.

He spat on his hands several times during the game on Saturday and the people in the grand stand expected to see the ball go over the fence—but it didn't.

Every one knows the Kamehamehas can play ball; it is also known that they are easily rattled when they are a few runs behind; but it was the poor playing of the Stars rather than any good playing on the part of their boys on Saturday that gave them a start which they maintained throughout the game.

The Stars have their weak men the same as other nines, but on Saturday they were weaker than usual. The season is not yet over, and even without the imported battery they may make a showing that will not be half bad.

The following is the score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Kamehamehas	0	3	1	0	3	0	1	1	0

The sultry weather of yesterday created a rush to Waikiki and bathing suits were in demand.

If it had not been for the excellent quality of coffee produced in Kona, it is not likely that foreigners would have been induced to invest their capital in lands in that district nor would the building of a telephone line, such as the new company proposes to construct, have had an existence even on paper. It's the fact that the locality produced in a small way and in the most primitive manner an article which caught the fancy of "canoozers" in the matter of coffee; they wanted more and they were willing to pay a good price, but there were no means of getting it. Investigation demonstrated that the land would produce an unlimited quantity, but the people in the vicinity had not given the proper attention to the cultivation, you all know the result, foreign capital came in and is coming every day, and before another decade the production of coffee will be a leading industry of the islands and the machinery used in pulping, cleaning and putting it through the various processes necessary to make it marketable will come through us. And why? Because we are interested in the coffee business; we know what is wanted and we secure the very latest improvements in coffee machinery. What is good enough for one man may not be good enough for another, but our stock of implements for the coffee business is good enough for all. The industry is still in its infancy and the growers do not know themselves just what they require, but if they will communicate with us, we can give them the necessary information.

The Helen Brewer brought us what charcoal irons will be needed during the next few months and the price is just what the condition of affairs here warrants. There was a time, not many years ago, where a single charcoal iron cost $5.00. In those days it was a luxury to own one, now it is a necessity and the low price we charge for them enables every one to have one.

We've never done much in the way of Refrigerators because the town seemed to be well supplied, but the prospects for a reduction in the price of ice warrant our carrying a few to accommodate people who want a really superior article—something they may depend upon to keep their meats and vegetables in during the day and over night without spoiling. It took an Eastern man to devise something a little better than any other inventor could produce—and we sell them.

For people who live out of town and wish to maintain their own telephone lines we wish to recommend our Long Distance Telephone and Chicago Magneto bells. With these instruments a conversation may be carried on between parties at almost an unlimited distance from each other. We have all the necessary articles used in the construction of private and public lines of telephones and can supply them at the lowest rates.

Among the articles received by the Helen Brewer are Brass Pipe Fittings—Galvanized Pipe and fittings—and Genuine New Bedford Cordage. If you are interested in galvanized pipe get a quotation from us.
